- How to begin to introduce this cultural change and how to get everyone on board

Does your business have corporate or large, group meetings? Are you looking for new and fresh ways to intentionally interact with and care for your employees? Corey Lusk, Kathryn Miller, Brad Nelson & Eddie Huskey

What's love got to do with it? Do you find it hard to balance love and accountability with your teams? In this session, we will discuss how love and accountability thrive in the same place at the same time. Leading with love and accountability together is counterintuitive in today's business environment because it turns many so-called leadership principles upside-down. Come discover the power and importance of this in your organization. Specific topics will include:

- What happens when love and accountability are not displayed together
- How love and accountability thrive together in a team
- How this can transform the way you lead and the culture of your organization
